Notes:

Finn would dip under 4k average viewers for the first time since Jan 1st, but went damn close to getting 4k again. This is still highly impressive stuff considering it was unknown if he would stream today till just over 2 hours beforehand (Gremlin things). He maintains above a 4k average for the month and is still on course for record viewership totals than any other month ever.

Followers wise, this was a highly successful stream, coming out at the 2nd highest of the year and easily the best of the lot when you consider the highest is the NY stream which went for over 9 hours compared to just over 4 hours here.

This puts Finn's average viewership for 2023 at 4,107, or 4,267 without the New Year stream.
